

HOUSING OPTIONS

PRIVATE FACILITIES: The following listing of housing resources includes private non-profit, for-profit, and religiously-affiliated residences. Accommodations range from private rooms with shared baths to one-and two bedroom apartments. Meals are provided and a variety of recreation programs are offered, as well as social and medical services.

Although these facilities are not nursing homes, many provide nursing services to residents who become ill after admission. Some are designated CRFs - community residential facilities. Costs vary widely as do eligibility requirements and pre-admission waiting time. Application for admission should be made directly to the individual facility.

PRIVATE SENIOR & FAMILY PROPERTIES: Privately owned housing is subsidized by the Federal government under the Housing Choice Voucher Program (FORMERLY SECTION 8) or the Low Income Housing Tax Credit. Each building must be contacted separately to place an application.

HOUSING CHOICE VOUCHER PROGRAM: The District of Columbia Housing Authority's (DCHA) Housing Choice Voucher Program rental assistance program increases affordable housing choices for very low-income households by allowing families to choose privately owned rental housing. The Housing Choice Voucher Program (HCVP) is administered by the Housing Authority under contract with the federal government. Participants generally contribute 30 percent of their monthly income toward housing costs, with the Housing Choice voucher program making up the difference—up to a locally defined "payment standard."

LOW INCOME HOUSING TAX CREDIT: The low-income housing tax credit was enacted by Congress to encourage new construction and rehabilitation of existing rental housing for low-income households and to increase the amount of affordable rental housing for households whose income is at or below specified income levels.

DC PUBLIC SENIOR PROPERTIES: Applicant must be 62 years of age and older and able to live independently. Costs are approximately 30 percent (30%) of adjusted gross income. Buildings have a secure lobby area, arts, and crafts rooms, lounge/recreation areas, laundry facilities, wide doorways, wheelchair ramps, health services, and the DC Office on Aging-sponsored nutrition and recreation programs. Some buildings are air conditioned. APPLICATION MUST BE MADE TO: PROPERTY MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION, 1133 NORTH CAPITOL STREET, NE, ROOM 111-C, WASHINGTON, DC 20430, 202/535-1500.

NURSING HOMES: Nursing homes are long-term care facilities that provide skilled and intermediate nursing care. Based on an individual patient assessment by a physician, needed services are provided. Nursing home certification is done on an individual basis. You may contact each facility to obtain information on administration, ownership, services and fees. Respite care (short-term relief for caregivers) is offered at some facilities on a space available basis.

COMMUNITY RESIDENTIAL FACILITIES (CRF): Community Residential Facilities are homes licensed to provide shelter in a supervised and structured communal/group setting. A level of care assessment is done by a physician to determine the type of CRF that would be suitable. Referrals are made by family members/caregivers, physicians, social workers, friends and self-referrals. For specific information on a CRF, call the DC Department of Health at 202/442-5999.

ASSISTED LIVING FACILITIES (ALF): Assisted Living Facilities offer a wide range of services designed to assist the resident with minimal to total care needs. From the research, Assisted Living Facilities provide one or more of the following: Private units, subsidies, transportation, courtyards, respite care, gardening, intermediate and skilled nursing care. Facilities must meet licensing requirements based on occupancy criteria. For information on a specific ALF, call the facility, the DC Department of Consumer and Regulatory Affairs 202/442-4400, the DC Department of Health 202/442-5888 or the DC Department of Human Services 202/ 463-6211.

CONGREGATE HOUSING: According to the Guide to Retirement Living, Fall/Winter 2000, "Congregate Housing is a level of housing between independent living and institutionalization that combines shelter with meals, housekeeping, and personal services. Congregate Housing provides help with activities of daily living to frail older persons who require assistance in performing personal and household functions. Congregate Housing services are offered in senior citizen apartment buildings that serve low to moderate income residents and may be operated by local housing authorities, non-profit organizations or housing management companies”. For information on Congregate Housing, call the DC Housing Authority at 202/535-1500 or the DC Office on Aging at 202/724-5626.

INDEPENDENT LIVING: Independent Living Facilities provide the resident an atmosphere of autonomy designed to encourage independence in a congregate setting. Residents often opt to move out of or sell their large family homes for a less burdensome living environment. Most of these facilities provide socialization, recreation, on-site clinics and other services that support and enhance the residents’ independence. For information on the Independent Living Facilities, call the DC Housing Authority at 202/535-1500 or DC Office on Aging at 202/724-5626

RETIREMENT COMMUNITIES: Retirement Community residents enjoy an independent lifestyle with the knowledge that if they become sick, or frail, their needs will continue to be met. Seniors are offered long-term contracts that guarantee lifelong care services.

EMERGENCY SHELTER: District of Columbia government agencies and private organizations provide an inclusive system of services that meet the needs of all city residents. Through inter-government collaboration, services are available to help homeless residents become self-sufficient. The DC Office on Aging provides shelter services for individuals and couples over 60 years of age.

SUPPORT SERVICES: The following programs seek to meet the basic shelter needs of the community by providing temporary shelter for persons in emergency situations, housing, location information, home improvement, counseling and insurance, and a variety of housing alternatives.
